

The deadline for registering in the Future Energy Leaders Program

The Montréal 2010 World Energy Congress would like to remind future energy leaders interested in submitting their applications to this program that February 26, 2010 is the deadline for applications. They must apply through their WEC National Member Committees.

The Future Energy Leaders Program (FELP) offers persons between 25 to 32 years of age working in the energy sector an opportunity to bring their ideas and concerns before their peers from around the world, with expert mentors fulfilling the role of facilitators. The final selection of participants in the FELP at WEC Montréal 2010 will be made by national Member Committees. For a complete list of member committees and useful information, visit www.worldenergy.org.
